

Ken Everett

Think on Your Feet® English Facilitator

Tel. (66) 2197 4588-9

Ken Everett heads a Singapore-based company, with offices in the UK and Australia. It teaches clients how to get their ideas across with clarity, brevity and impact. With a network of over one hundred associates in twenty five countries his company offers programs like Think on Your Feet®, The Skilled Presenter™ and Writing Dynamics™.

When time permits, he delivers workshops and key-note presentations for clients in the high-tech, professional services, finance and government sectors. Representative clients include Lotus, PricewaterhouseCoopers, Merrill Lynch, Hong Kong Telecom and Hewlett-Packard.

Ken's background is in senior management, sales, teaching, and research. He has been in the international training field for 23 years, first as CEO of Wilson Learning Australia, before forming his own company. He came to training after 16 years at IBM--in senior management, marketing and strategic planning. His first career was as a high-school science teacher.

He has a Bachelor of Science from Melbourne University, and a Masters in Cognitive Science from the University of New South Wales. Presently, he is conducting research into the emerging "network organisation", thus combining his work, his study and his hobby.

He is based in Sydney with his wife and twenty one year old daughter. From there he travels regularly to Europe and the Asia-Pacific to support and develop his network of associates.

For more information, please visit www.aclc.-asia.com.